Red Canary makes it easy to get started with Defender. We help you with onboarding, product training, licensing assistance, strategic planning, and security posture consulting.

Quickly solve skills and budget gaps

We act as your complete in-house SOC team, or augment your existing operations to help you cut alert noise and respond more effectively to threats.

Stay ahead of evolving threats

We identify the most critical threats and provide detailed investigation and analysis. When we detect a new threat in our customer base, we provide herd immunity within minutes.

The result? We're able to find the things your team and other products can't.

96% fewer alerts

Reduced analyst burnout

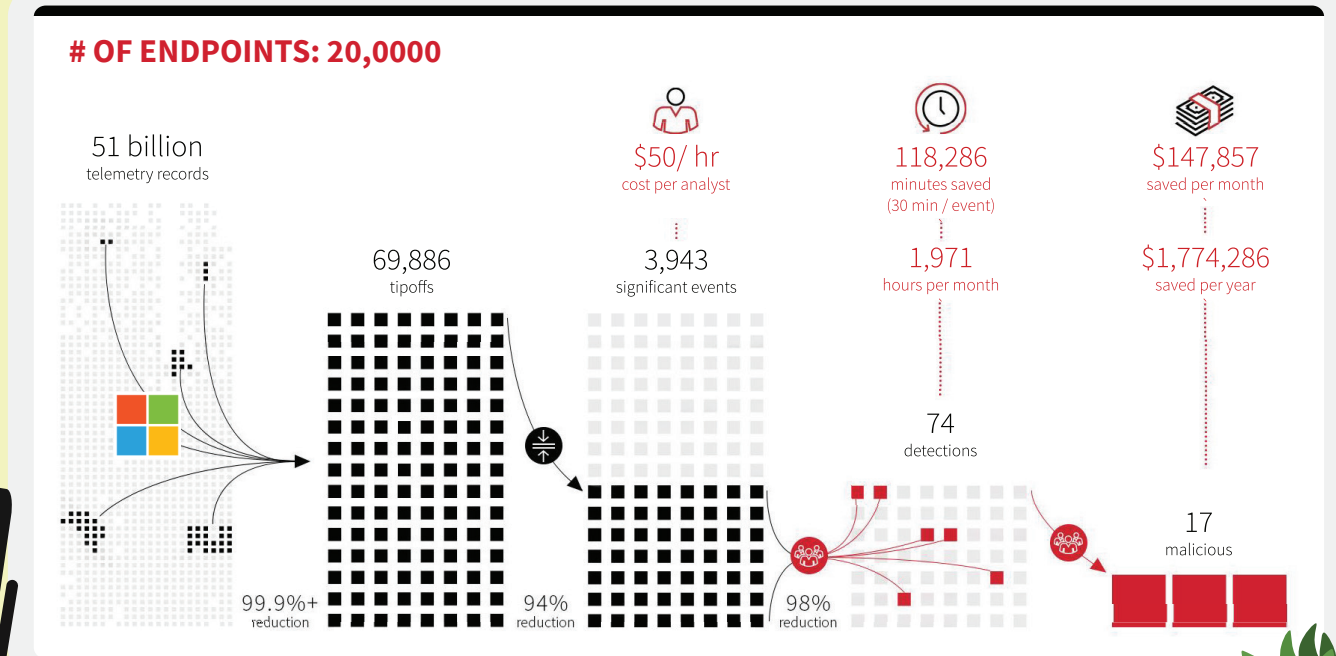

90% increase in productivity

Better security efficiency

3.8x increase in confirmed detections

Our incident handlers are engaged in hundreds of incident responses each year and use that experience to continuously update behavior-based detection from endpoint telemetry. Their analytic rules significantly extend Defender's threat detection coverage, quadrupling the number of confirmed threats detected.

10x faster response

Faster detection matters because it reduces the impact on your organization and customers. Red Canary customers boast a 75% reduction in realized risk per endpoint over time, a statistic made possible by a significant investment in adversary behavior research.
